EVOLUTION AND FUNCTIONING OF THE RUSSIAN LANGUAGE

Kosova M.V., Kiyamova S.Kh.
The category of locality in a document text .................................................................................. 6

Kireeva E.Z.
Euphemism as a speech act (illustrated by texts of region laws) .................................................. 11

Rebrova I.V.
Headings in the literary critical discourse in periodicals of Russian first wave émigrés
(an examination of literary reviews written in the 1920s) ................................................................. 15

Prokhvatilova O.A.
The intonational and sound characteristics of declamatory pronouncing style ......................... 22

Nekrasova T.N.
Linguo-semiotic specificity of carnival interaction
in the course of automobile travelling through Russia .................................................................. 28

Omelchenko S.R., Morozova V.A.
Ethnonyms in the linguistic world image of Russian Germans ...................................................... 33

Kudryavtseva A.A.
Synonymous potential of appellativized units .................................................................................. 40

Chernyavskaya E.S.
Partitioning of the speech stream in the radio advertising and its peculiarities ............................. 46

Kharchenko S.Yu.
Adverbs functioning in the speech of dialect speakers ................................................................... 51

Mikhaylyuk Yu.V.
The syntactic structure of oral speech
as a part of speech portrait of a modern pupil: a dynamic aspect .................................................. 57
CONTENT

INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION AND COMPARATIVE STUDIES OF LANGUAGES

Mityagina V.A.
An attractive university image as a communicative and pragmatic goal ........................................ 64

Astafurova T.N., Olyanich A.V.
Linguo-semiotics of the institution of higher education ......................................................................... 71

Fomichenko L.G.
Linguo-semiotic peculiarities of the bilinguals’ prosodic speech organization ........................................ 79

Khromov S.S.
Intonation as a universal ................................................................................................................... 84

Tochilina Yu.N.
Specifics of the verbalization of the concept of Russland (Russia) in German mass media ............ 92

Gulinov D.Yu.
Linguistic climate of modern French advertisements ........................................................................ 98

Kochetova L.A.
Dynamics of the evaluation strategy in advertising discourse ............................................................ 103

Deberdeeva E.E., Sayannaya N.N.
National mentality reflection in language (the case study of Russian and English proverbs with metaphorical and connotative components) ............................................................. 109

Ilynova E.Yu.
Imagination in fiction and its cognitive representation in the genre .................................................... 115

Sidorovich T.S., Novozhilova A.A., Naumova A.P.
Nanotechnology term system formation (English, German, French, Russian) ........................................ 121

MATERIALS AND REPORTS

Tyurikova N.A.
Extra- and intralinguistic reasons of changes in dynamic terminologies ............................................. 126

Levina M.A.
Paradigmatic and syntagmatic relations in secondary legal terminological systems ............................. 130

Sarkisyan G.A.
The comparative characteristics of the charter and code of ethics ........................................................ 134
Abakumova S.S.
Characteristics of the formal phone conversation in the Russian and German languages .................. 137

Zolotarenko T.A.
Invective essence levels .................................................................................................................. 142

Mishina E.A.
Pronominal phatics of the tourist advertising discourse .......................................................... 146

Ryzhenko E.S.
Press release as a genre of PR-discourse .................................................................................... 150

Vasilyev S.L., Probst N.A.
The interfield zone of interrogative-incentive modality in texts of interviews............................... 156

Chernitsyna T.V.
Communicative strategies of praise in V.M. Shukshin’s prose: typology, linguistic realization ...... 160

Kapitonova I.V.
Perlocutie effect of directive speech acts in conventional face-to-face interaction ..................... 164

Prokhvatilova O.A., Sinitsyna L.V.
About the rhythm of announcer’s speech .................................................................................... 170

Golembovskaya N.G.
The representation of a binary antinomic opposition “greed – generosity”
in semantics of Russian and Lithuanian paroemias ..................................................................... 175

DISCUSSIONS

Vorobieva S.Yu.
The problem of “women’s writing” in the theory of discourse context ......................................... 180

CHRONICLE OF SCIENTIFIC LIFE

Prostov A.V., Sidorov A.A.
International academic conference
“Communicative aspects of modern linguistics and linguodidactics” ...................................... 188
Takhtarova S.S.

Petrova A.A.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS ................................................................................................................................. 199